JUDGES NAME TOPPER TOPS IN BEARD TEST

Six months of straining, inconvenience, wifely nagging and good-natured ribbing brought rewards Friday evening when 64 of the numerous men of the McSherrystown area who grew beards for the celebration appeared on stage at the pageant site in the Delone football field to determine the champion beards. Despite the large number of bearded men in the competition there were at least three times that many among the approximately 2,000 watching the performance.

Gerald Topper won first prize for best looking beard. Lewis J. Klunk, who took second prize for the best looking beard, was also presented with an award given by the Ed Topper Barber Shop.

Albert Kuhn's red beard won the title of most unusual, with Barney Brady second in that category.

MOST DIGNIFIED

The winners for most dignified award were George Weaver, first, and William May, second. Philip Hagerman was first in the most comical division with Richard Seymore second.

For the contest the bearded men were divided into groups in accordance with the division in which they were entered. Fifteen appeared for the best looking beard, 17 for most unusual, 24 for most dignified, and eight for most comical. Judges C. P. Keefe, James K. Stock and James L. Q. Kinkel, all of New Oxford, judged by a process of elimination, until only two remained on the stage in each division of the event. Richard Conrad was master of ceremonies for the judging and Burnell Dillman, participation division chairman, presented the trophies to the winners.

Following the contest, and preceding the pageant, Mrs. Letha Klunk presented organ melodies. A group of McSherrystown area youths presented Cherokee Indian dances and the Bunker Hills trio of Hanover sang several selections.

This weekend McSherrystown will wind up the observance of its bicentennial by preparing the way for the 250th anniversary observance in 1913.

TIME CAPSULE

This afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Centennial headquarters officials will gather bicentennial mementoes, place them in a permanent container to be appropriately marked, and then, later on this year, will place the container in a brick column at the park to await the passage of the next 50 years. Residents of the town 50 years from now, it is hoped, will open the time capsule at the 250th observance of the founding of the town.

Also scheduled for today is the bicentennial parade at 3 o'clock this afternoon and presentation of the "McSherrystown Story" pageant this evening. The McSherrystown firemen's carnival running through the week winds up tonight. The display of antique furnishings going back at least 169 years and possibly 200 in the Delone auditorium continues today and Sunday. The pageant will be presented again Sunday night.

PAGEANT PLEAS

The more than 250 McSherrystown residents taking part in the pageant again pleased the spectators. Depicting the history of McSherrystown.

Man Tells Of Watching Man, Daughter Crushed

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP)—Ronald P. Haines, 31, of Maple Shade, N.J., said he fled in horror Wednesday after watching a 58-year-old man and his eight-year-old daughter crushed to death in the machinery of a moving stair at Garden State race track.

He said he wandered for nearly a day in a daze.

Haines was apparently the only witness to the deaths of John Patrick Sweeney and his daughter Peggy. Cherry Hill Township Police Chief Frank Jones talked with Haines Friday. Haines was later put under a physician's care.

Haines said he and Sweeney had gone shopping Wednesday afternoon. They took Peggy along. Enroute to a shopping center they stopped for a beer and Peggy had a soda.

"LOOKED AROUND"

While drinking their beer, Haines said, they decided to go to the track to look around. Sweeney once worked in the maintenance department there.

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—A baby girl, believed to be less than one week old, was found abandoned Friday night in a pew at St. Patrick's Church.

Two worshippers, William Schack of Erie and his sister, Mrs. Julia Mazzejo of Pittsburgh, heard cries while walking out of the church and discovered the infant.

The church pastor, the Rev. C. L. Crowley, notified police who took the baby to Ham T. Hospital. Doctors said she appeared to be in good health, so she was taken to the St. Joseph's Home for Children.

Police said tiny identification beads bearing name "DuValle" were found on the infant, but they said a check of Erie hospitals showed that no babies of that name born recently.

CARS WRECKED, NONE HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Two cars were demolished, two utility poles broken and several trees broken off in an accident near Seven Stars at midnight Friday, and no one was injured.

State police said William David McKenrick, 28, Baltimore, was driving west on the Lincoln Highway when he sought to pass a car operated by Fred E. Landsberger, 23, Fairfield R. 2.

As McKenrick began the pass, police said, he saw another car coming toward him, eastbound, and sought to get back into the westbound lane. McKenrick's convertible struck the left side of Landsberger's auto and the two cars, out of control, went off the road onto the lawn at the property of John Cassatt, Gettysburg R. 3, striking two utility poles en route, colliding with trees on the Cassatt lawn and tearing up the turf.

DAMAGES LISTED

Police estimated damage to McKenrick's car at $1,000, to Landsberger's at $900, to a Metropolitan Edison Company pole at $200, to a United Telephone pole at $200 and to the Cassatt lawn and trees, $200.

No one was hurt in the accident, according to the police report. McKenrick was taken before Justice of the Peace John Whitman where he pleaded guilty to a charge of making an improper pass and paid a fine of $10 and costs.

The accident was one of two investigated by state police from the local substation Friday.

Friday morning a car driven by John R. Gobel, 17, of 245 Baltimore St., Hanover, and a Wege Pretzel Company truck driven by John Murray, 36, also of Hanover, collided at the intersection of a legislative route with the Hanover-Carlisle Rd. about two miles north of Hampton. State police estimated damage at $1,000 to each of the vehicles and said no one was injured.

According to the officers, the truck operated by Murray was headed north on the Hanover-Carlisle Rd. when Gobel's car, going east, entered the intersection from the legislative route.

2 MINOR ACCIDENTS

Two minor accidents within 45 minutes Friday noon resulted in negligible damages, according to borough police, who investigated. Ray E. Baker, R. 3, driving a truck into Lincoln Square from York St., bumped the left fender of a '61 Comet driven by Margaret Updegraff, Lemoyne, who was proceeding around the square. At 12:10 a.m. Peter C. Menges, York St., and Ralph M. Steed, Braddock, brushed fenders as both were circling the square. Damage was slight.

Rescue 6 Yanks After 6 Hours In Storms, Winds

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—Six American servicemen, their plane forced down in choppy seas, were rescued and reported in excellent condition today despite more than six hours exposure to thunderstorms and high winds.

An Italian intercoastal vessel, the Partenope, found the men huddled in a life raft which they launched from their twin-engine U.S. Navy reconnaissance plane after ditching it Friday night off the Amalfi coast during a thunderstorm.

The Partenope transferred the Navy airmen to the U.S. destroyer Barton, which took them to Naples.

NOT INJURED

The Barton radioed the North Atlantic Treaty Organization command here that the men were in good condition with no injuries.

A NATO spokesman said that 12 men, four crewmen and eight passengers, were aboard the C117 Dakota when it took off from Capodichino Airport outside Naples on a routine flight to Catania, Sicily. A later communique said eight were aboard the plane. Finally the figure was changed to six.

The Dakota radioed within an hour after takeoff that it was running into trouble. Thunderstorms were brewing in the area when radio contact was lost.

Italian military and commercial vessels, American ships and planes, and helicopters of both nations sought the plane.

Search planes spotted flares near Li Galli islet, about seven miles off the Salerno peninsula south of Naples. Vessels concentrated in that area until the men were picked up.

NATO headquarters here said the Barton identified those aboard the C117 as:

Lt. Cmdr. Harold Hamilton Kelly, pilot; Lt. Wayne Milo Matson, co-pilot; Machinist Mate 1C Clarence Edward Lawton; Machinist Mate 3C James Murray Lentini; Electronics Technician 1C William Hilmar Volkman, radio operator.

SEN. KEFAUVER EXPIRES AFTER HEART ATTACK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver, the tall, folksy Tennesseean who campaigned in a coonskin cap and once nearly won the Democratic presidential nomination, died today of a ruptured heart vessel.

Death came in the predawn hours at Bethesda Naval Hospital and followed what doctors had described earlier as a "mild heart attack" after Kefauver left the Senate floor Thursday evening feeling ill.

Kefauver had observed his 60th birthday on July 26.

The death was announced by his administrative aide, Charles Caldwell.

FAMILY ABSENT

Mrs. Kefauver and two of their three daughters, rushing back from a Denver vacation to be with him, arrived too late. Their plane landed just about the time the senator died at 3:40 a.m., an aide said.

Kefauver, Tennessee's senior senator serving his third straight six-year term, was as well known for his Senate investigations of crime, the drug industry and boxing as he was for his two unsuccessful campaigns for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1952 and 1956.

A big, friendly man, he had a wide campaign grin and reached out to shake any hand in sight. His softspoken voice seemed almost surprising, coming from his 6-foot-3, 200-pound frame.

MY NAME IS ESTES

"My name is Estes Kefauver," he would say in that soft voice. "I'm running for president of the United States. I hope you'll help me."

In 1952 he swept 14 of the 17 Democratic presidential preferential primaries.

At the national convention in Chicago, Kefauver led on the first two ballots, but Adlai Stevenson, now U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, overtook him in the third and went on to win the nomination.

Kefauver tried and lost again to Stevenson for the 1956 nomination, but wound up winning the vice presidential spot on the ticket by defeating a rising young Democratic figure, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

LOST BOTH TIMES

The Stevenson tickets lost both times to Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Before entering the Senate, Kefauver had served more than nine years in the House.

Noted as a liberal on many matters, including civil rights legislation, he was one of the few Southerners in Congress to refuse to sign a manifesto attacking the 1954 Supreme Court school desegregation ruling.

His support of antipoll tax and antilynching legislation, and attempts to reform Senate rules to curb filibusters, won him no political friends among the Southern bloc.

CRIME PROBER

He first became familiar to millions of Americans through the cross-country series of televised hearings of his Senate crime investigating committee in 1950 and 1951.

Many of the nation's bigtime racket chiefs, gamblers and hoodlums were hauled before Kefauver—and the TV cameras. He wrote a book about his findings, called "Crime in America."

Fire Ruins Two Resort Town Piers

COLONIAL BEACH, Va. (AP)—Fire early today destroyed two of this resort amusement piers until several years ago famous for their gambling casinos. The piers, jutting out from the Virginia shore, actually were in Maryland territory.

The blaze apparently started at about 4:30 a.m. in the Monte Carlo and Little Reno amusement piers. Both were reported total losses.

The two casinos and their slot machines figured prominently in Maryland action outlawing gambling operations in establishments which could not be entered from the Maryland shore. The Potomac is in Maryland jurisdiction.

In recent years, the casinos were used as amusement piers and dancing halls. Gambling in the two buildings came to a halt several years ago.

SCOUT DISPLAYS

Displays of hundreds of articles by Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts and 4-H Club members was a special highlight of Friday's program. The displays were presented in the cafeteria of Delone High School. The display by the five Girl Scout units filled half of the cafeteria and ranged from displays of international friendship to a tenting scene with different types of campfires. Nearly all of the Girl Scout badge work was displayed and there were dummies wearing uniforms of the Girl Scouts through the years.

Charles Diller announced Friday that the display of antiques on the stage of the Delone auditorium will continue through Sunday, and will open not only during the day but also during and after the pageant each evening.

The antique furnishings range from a kitchen with complete equipment, including a stove, to a parlor with a more than a century-old organ and 169-year-old chairs, to a bedroom and an ancient tavern room. The antiques were provided by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Diller, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weaver, Vernon Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Henler, Mrs. Martha Dumas, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Noel, George Deatrack, Dennis J. Hockensmith, Mrs. Evelyn Zinn, Mark Rickrode, Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Krepps, Paul Null and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burke.

RUSK FLIES TO SEEK SUPPORT FOR TEST BAN

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk flies to Bonn today to rally West German support for the nuclear test ban treaty after wide-ranging talks with Soviet Premier Khrushchev on cold war issues.

Rusk scheduled the 20-hour stopover partly to soothe West German apprehension over the limited test ban pact which Communist East Germany plans to sign. Bonn fears the treaty could be manipulated to force recognition of East Germany and seal the division of Germany.

West Germany wants assurance that the test treaty will not be used to jeopardize the freedom and security of West Berlin.

WANT GUARANTEE

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder were expected to insist to Rusk that the West receive such a guarantee before West Germany adheres to the treaty.

They were expected to make similar demands in considering Khrushchev's proposals to ease cold war tensions—an East-West nonaggression pact, reductions in military spending, and ground inspection teams on both sides of the Iron Curtain to guard against surprise attack.

Rusk planned to brief the West German leaders on his week of talks in the Soviet Union before returning to Washington Monday to drum up support for Senate ratification of the test ban treaty.

Rusk conferred with Khrushchev for 2½ hours Friday at the Soviet premier's lavish Black Sea retreat in a relaxed meeting followed by a fast game of badminton.

Khrushchev, 69, claimed victory over Rusk, 54. "Practice," Khrushchev said when Rusk told him, "You play well."

Among other things they discussed Germany, Berlin, trade, Laos, Cuba, and the nonaggression pact. Rusk said that no conclusions were reached and that negotiations will continue through normal diplomatic channels.

There evidently was no talk of a summit meeting.

After a huge Russian-style meal on a porch overlooking the sea, Rusk returned to Moscow.

Lutherans Open Unity Move

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) —

The fourth general assembly of the Lutheran World Federation today approved creation of a group to further friendly relations with other churches, especially the Roman Catholic Church.

The move was called one of the most important decisions made in the closing work session.

Under the recommendation approved by the assembly, a special Lutheran foundation on interconfessional research will be established—probably in Strasbourg, France—to further what the resolution called the ecumenical dialogue with non-Lutheran churches, but especially with the Roman Catholic Church.

The Roman Catholic Church held its own ecumenical council last fall at the Vatican and plans to resume it this fall.

Ecumenical means worldwide, with subsidiary meanings of liberty and tolerance.

Quaker State's Riflemen To Duel Kentucky Marksmen Over Muzzle-loader Claims

A squabble between Pennsylvania and Kentucky will be settled in typical Kentucky style this fall when riflemen from the two states shoot it out to determine which one should rightfully claim the frontier long rifle.

The flintlock rifle, Pennsylvanians say, was first made by gunsmiths in that state. Kentuckians reply that the old muzzle-loaders were so powerful they had to be exported to be fired by Kentucky marksmen.

To complicate claims on the famous weapon, Pennsylvanians pointed out recently that Daniel Boone, whose name is closely linked with it, was born in the Quaker state.

SENSE TO LEAVE

Kentuckians retort that it is to Boone's credit that he had the good sense to leave and come to Kentucky.

Idea for the rifle match originated with Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, a Republican, who dispatched a party of eight Pennsylvanians on horseback to deliver the challenge to Kentucky Gov. Bert Combs. The "invaders" reached Frankfort, the state capital, in 20 days, roughly following the old Wilderness Road opened up by Boone.

At the Capitol Building, Combs, a Democrat, accepted Scranton's challenge and guaranteed the roving Pennsylvanians safe passage, adding the proviso that they must not engage in Republican politics within Kentucky borders. Combs also remarked that "some of that Pennsylvania rye whiskey might make a good rub-down for your muscles."

LAW AGAINST DUELING

Combs, who pointed out that the Kentucky Constitution forbids him and other state officials from engaging in duels with deadly weapons, hinted that in the hands of Pennsylvanians the Kentucky long rifle would be something less than deadly.

The governor will accompany the 10-man Kentucky team to the Daniel Boone homestead near Reading, Pa., for the first match September 28. Each member of the Kentucky marks men will arrive with powder horn and balls and Kentucky-made long rifle.

Kentucky will host the return shoot sometime in October.

"CLAIMINGST BUNCH"

Col. George Chinn, a noted firearms expert from Harrodsburg, Ky., — a town which grew up in Daniel Boone's day — has thrown himself into the fray, too. Chinn met the Pennsylvanian riders as they entered Kentucky at Cumberland Gap, and promptly described them as "the claimingst bunch of people I ever met . . . they even told me a Kentucky cardinal is a Pennsylvania sparrow suffering from high blood pressure."

Later in Frankfort, Colonel Chinn showed the Pennsylvanians the grave of Boone, on a bluff overlooking the Kentucky capital. The retired Marine Corps officer has written several volumes on firearms and he is the last man to have fired the Daniel Boone rifle. The ancient muzzle-loader, standing almost five feet tall and inscribed, "D. Boone," takes a place of honor at the Kentucky Historical Society in Frankfort where Chinn is director.

REPLICA OF RIFLE
A replica of the rifle, presented by Kentuckians, will ride aboard the new Polaris atomic submarine, Daniel Boone, when it is commissioned by the U.S. Navy late this year.

In front of the old state capital, which now houses the Historical Society, Chinn pointed out the spot where Gov. William Goebel, a Pennsylvanian by birth, distinguished himself by becoming the only Kentucky governor to be assassinated. Chinn's grandfather witnessed the shooting in 1900.

The long rifle dispute has triggered recollections of other long-forgotten ties between the two states. Historians claim that Lancaster, Ky., is the namesake of Lancaster, Pa., while Covington, Ky., predates Covington, Pa., so named by Pennsylvanians who had visited the northern Kentucky town.

Pennsylvania-born troubadour Stephen Collins Foster penned the song "My Old Kentucky Home" after a visit to the Federal Hill estate at Bardonia. The estate has been preserved as My Old Kentucky Home State Park and a musical drama, "The Stephen Foster Story," is presented there each summer.

Pennsylvanians maintain a shrine in Foster's home, too, located at his burial place in Pittsburgh.

Workmen's compensation payments have increased from $235 million in 1959 to more than $1.3 billion in 1962, according to the National Safety Council.

The six-fold increase is due to more workers being covered and to more liberal benefit payments made. Last year the national average wage compensation of about $730 per case varied from a low of less than $100 in New Mexico to more than $1,600 in Michigan. State variations result from differences in state laws, in types of work and in accident experience.

Private insurance carriers paid out the largest part of the payments in 1962, more than $851 million. State funds paid nearly $347 million and self-insurers more than $162 million.

Every time you took a breath in 1962 — about once every three seconds — somebody suffered a disabling injury from an accident.

The year's 97,000 accidental deaths, one every five minutes, looked like: Motor vehicle accidents killed somebody every 13 minutes; an accident in the home took a life every 18 minutes; and a worker died every 38 minutes from an on-the-job accident — every 18 minutes from an off-the-job accident.

Nearly two-thirds of fatal boating accidents are the operator's fault.

Improper loading and seating alone account for more than a third of these accidents. And the statistics point up the fact that a veteran boater is not necessarily a safe one, because 61 per cent of the operators at fault in fatal accidents have more than 100 hours experience — and 38 per cent have more than 500.

Saturday was the most dangerous day of the week for motorists in 1962.

Motor vehicle deaths for the year—40,900 in all—averaged 112 a day, but they hit a peak of 165 on Saturdays. Sunday was second with 142, Monday and Thursday with 94 and Tuesday and Wednesday with 87.

Don't think you're safe from drowning just because you never go swimming.

Last year about 3,900 persons, or more than half of those who drowned, were non-swimming fatalities. They fell into the water, had accidents in or around the home or were in transport, recreation or ship-repair mishaps. In all, about 6,400 persons drowned in 1962, 125 fewer than in 1961.

You are up to four and a half times safer in an auto accident if you are not thrown out of your car, says the National Safety Council. This is true whether you're in a convertible or any other body style.

A study of passenger car rollover accidents showed little difference in the safety of the different body styles. Out of 6,247 persons involved in accidents, 2,246 were thrown out when the cars turned over.

Among those who were hurled from their cars when they rolled over, 14 per cent of the convertible occupants and 18 per cent of those in other cars were seriously injured in accidents under 60 miles an hour. In accidents over 60, 26 per cent of the convertible passengers and 25 per cent of riders in other body styles were casualties.

In contrast, in accidents which happened at less than 60 miles an hour, 4 per cent of those who remained with the cars were injured. At speeds over 60 miles an hour, 8 per cent were hurt. The proportions were the same for both body styles.

ejected from your automobile in an accident, the council says.

More people died in traffic last summer than in any other season of the year, says the National Safety Council. This was a sharp contrast to most years.

Accidents killed nearly 11,600 people in June, July, and August—more than in any other three-month period. In most years deaths are highest in the last quarter because of longer hours of darkness and increased pedestrian traffic during the holiday season. A sharp increase in travel during the summer is charged with much of the change last year.

August was the worst single month, with 4,030 deaths. Safest of the year was February, when 2,480 were killed.

Studies show that nine out of 10 persons who die in boating accidents don't have lifesaving equipment.

Coast Guard figures of fatal boat accidents show that 61 per cent of the persons who had such equipment were saved, while only 31 per cent of those not equipped were rescued.

The Philippines has the lowest accidental death rate among countries publishing such information for recent years. Its rate for 1960 was 16.1 deaths per 100,000 population. Highest figure is Chile's, with 67.6 in 1959. In comparison, the United States figure for 1961 was 50.4.

Nearly three-fourths of the 40,900 motor vehicle deaths in 1962 were in rural accidents.

Most of the 29,400 rural fatalities were occupants of motor vehicles, but in urban areas almost half the victims were pedestrians.

Slightly more than half of all fatal accidents occurred at night.

As far as accountants are concerned, on-the-job accidents are a lot like icebergs.

The part you can see easily, the injury to the worker himself, accounts for only one-sixth of the total loss to industry—40 million man-days in 1962. An additional 195 million man-days were lost last year because of other workers—uninjured ones—who stopped work to aid their injured neighbor, to gawk, or to talk about the accident, and who later had to spend time replacing products and equipment damaged by the accident.

Wearing a clerical collar instead of an astronaut's suit, an American has made history by traveling only a fraction less mileage than the distance to the moon in one journey over the earth's surface.

This globe trotter is Canon Howard A. Johnson, who covered 200,000 miles and crossed the equator six times while visiting 80 countries to see how his fellow Christians live around the globe. During the journey, which lasted 730 days, he slept in 204 beds, flew in 210 airplanes, and suffered hundreds of mosquito bites.

Canon Johnson is canon of the Episcopal Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, New York City. Results of his trip, including 56 photos, are described in his new book, "Global Odyssey."

Canon Johnson flew from below sea level to mountain tops, from frigid to torrid climates in a whirlwind succession that left his teeth chattering at times.

"I am not certain how my constitution continued to stand such unremitting and drastic physical change," he said. "It requires a nimbleness to undergo every few days, and sometimes within a single day, a change in altitude, climate, diet, water, customs, language, money. And because different countries drive on different sides of the road, I became a curbstone coward, afraid to cross the street, not knowing which way the traffic would be moving. A journey like mine is destructive of all sense of time and location. The traveler expects breakfast but is confronted with a seven-course dinner. One is prepared for summer, but here it is winter!"

One of his most strenuous ventures was in Kiching, Sarawak, where he found that the bishop of Borneo and his wife had made two plans for his stay, not knowing his age. They had drawn up "Plan A" in case the canon theologian proved to be a doddering old man, and "Plan B" in case he proved to be an athletic young man.

"They nodded their heads and said 'Plan B' when they met me," says the 42-year-old author. "And it almost proved the death of me. The soil of Sarawak is mostly mud as slick as glass, and we climbed a steep mountain covered with mud which either sucked the shoes right off my feet, or set me sliding."

"Most terrifying were the bridges — mere logs thrown across narrow gullies, with at best a single bamboo pole rigged up to serve as a hand-rail. We crossed about 50 such bridges, many pitched at a steep angle. Since the Land Dayaks are short of stature, the handrail is placed so low that for me to reach it I had to bend nearly double, which forced me to look at the boulders and rushing mountain streams below."

"To bolster my courage, the Bishop of Borneo, as we came to each new bridge, recited appropriate and comforting verses from the Psalms until we were safely over. I was chagrined, as the Land Dayaks scampered across the bridge with the agility of tightrope walkers. 'But think,' said the bishop, 'of the mortal terror they would be in if they had to cross Times Square!'"

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington: INFILTRATING CRIME: The Federal Bureau of Investigation has infiltrated the silent legions of the national crime syndicate, a Justice Department source reports.

The undercover informants are so widespread within organized crime that "we know what's going on," said one source.

"We're getting more good information now than we've ever gotten before," he said.

Through this underground, the sources said, the government was able to doublecheck mobster Joseph Valachi's talking about the wheels within wheels of the syndicate — the so-called "Cosa Nostra."

Valachi has been hidden away by federal agents to save his life.

HUNGARIAN: The State Department says the United States would like to develop "more normal and active relations" with Communist East European governments, but full-scale relations with Hungary are not being resumed now.

Press officer Richard I. Phillips gave this word to newsmen Friday in the wake of reports that the United States is about to send a minister to Budapest and receive a Hungarian minister here.

The United States had kept only a charge d'affaires in Budapest since suppression of the 1956 Hungarian revolt. Recently, there have been signs that U.S.-Hungarian relations are mending.

BOUNTY: Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, has suggested a way he believes will make it more costly for Russia to keep troops in Cuba.

He proposed to the Senate Friday that the United States offer a reward, asylum and job to any Russian there who will defect to this country.

Broadcasting such an offer to Soviet soldiers and fliers would "raise tremendously the price of continued Soviet occupation of Cuba and the cost of maintaining their Soviet-supplied, Soviet-led striking force," said Bennett.

ALUMINUM PRICES: Government auditors contend the Aluminum Co. of America has charged the military excessive prices and is refusing to show actual cost data.

In a report to Congress Friday, the General Accounting Office cited contract prices it said exceeded by about 51 per cent Alcoa's known current production costs.

The case cited involved non-competitive procurement of military aircraft forgings at a cost of $2.6 million.

Under the pressure of time, the auditors said, the prices were accepted on contracts awarded from November 1957 to October 1960.

The government agency said the company realized a profit of 277 per cent.

Alcoa challenged the report as "incomplete" and presenting a false conclusion.

They had drawn up "Plan A" in case the canon theologian proved to be a doddering old man, and "Plan B" in case he proved to be an athletic young man.

"They nodded their heads and said 'Plan B' when they met me," says the 42-year-old author. "And it almost proved the death of me. The soil of Sarawak is mostly mud as slick as glass, and we climbed a steep mountain covered with mud which either sucked the shoes right off my feet, or set me sliding."

"Most terrifying were the bridges — mere logs thrown across narrow gullies, with at best a single bamboo pole rigged up to serve as a hand-rail. We crossed about 50 such bridges, many pitched at a steep angle. Since the Land Dayaks are short of stature, the handrail is placed so low that for me to reach it I had to bend nearly double, which forced me to look at the boulders and rushing mountain streams below."

"To bolster my courage, the Bishop of Borneo, as we came to each new bridge, recited appropriate and comforting verses from the Psalms until we were safely over. I was chagrined, as the Land Dayaks scampered across the bridge with the agility of tightrope walkers. 'But think,' said the bishop, 'of the mortal terror they would be in if they had to cross Times Square!'"

LAWRENCE IS PACT BACKER

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Former Gov. David L. Lawrence has called for American acceptance of the nuclear test ban treaty worked out with Russia.

In an address Friday night before the Young Democratic Clubs of Pennsylvania, Lawrence said the treaty brings new hope and new challenges for world peace.

He called it a necessary step in that direction.

The former governor also took a few shots at Gov. Scranton.

He accused the present Republican administration of "playing hard and fast politics" while hiding behind the "false face" of reform.

SCORED SCRANTON

Lawrence said Scranton had said there was no need to increase state taxes but then pushed for higher sales, cigarette and liquor taxes when got into office.

He said the governor has ignored increases in unemployment and at the same time injured the state's civil service program by hiring Republicans into many state jobs.

The meeting of the Young Democrats opened Friday. It runs through Sunday.

gaining insight into attitudes of Christians of other racial cultures. One of the most amusing examples of mistaken judgments based on differences in cultures was found among wives from rural areas in East Africa who joined their husbands working in Nairobi. Lost in the confusion of a strange world of supermarkets and gas stoves, the women recoiled in horror from canned baby food with pictures of infants on the label, thinking Americans and Europeans are still cannibals. After all, are not pictures on labels reliable guides to contents of cans? Tins with carrots have carrots on the outside, they reason, tins of beet are adorned with beets! Church groups in Nairobi conduct domestic science courses for the newly arrived wives to teach them how to keep house in a world different from any they have ever known!

HOOSIER TEAM TOPS TANKERS IN AAU TESTS

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—"People think we should set a record every time we get our feet wet, but I think it's a good thing we aren't."

That's the view of Jim Counsilman, veteran Indiana University swimming coach whose squad, representing the Indianapolis A.C., is powering its way to the team title of the National AAU Outdoor Men's Swimming and Diving Championships.

Conspicuous by their absence are records in the meet, which opened in the new 50-meter Ridge-land Common pool at suburban Oak Park Friday.

ONLY 1 RECORD

After five swimming events out of 14 to be contested in the three-day affair, the only record of sorts was by 17-year-old Don Schollander of the Santa Clara, Calif., Swim Club.

He churned the 400-meter freestyle in 4:17.7, compared to the 4:17.2 meet record set last year by Australia's Murray Rose.

Schollander's effort goes into the AAU books as an American citizen's mark, topping the previous such listing of 4:19.2 by Indiana's Alan Somers in the 1960 Olympics at Rome.

EYES 200 METERS

Schollander is featured in today's schedule of five events. He will try for an AAU mark in the 200-meter freestyle as defending champion.

"This pool is only three feet deep at the shallow end and hinders the turns," said Counsilman in explaining lack of the usual speed in such a meet.

"But maybe it's a good thing not to have records. It shows how hard they are to achieve. So many of them are usually set, people get blasé about them."

HOOSIERS WAY AHEAD

Counsilman's Hoosiers' compiled 49½ points to 9½ for second-place Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia in an overwhelming shot at the team crown.

The biggest disappointment, however, was the failure of the Hoosiers' world record-holder, Chet Jastremski, even to qualify for the 100-meter breaststroke, won by 18-year-old Bill Craig, Southern California freshman, in 1:10.2. "The Jet," whose world mark is 1:07.5, offered no alibi.

Other winners included Walt Richardson, 20-year-old math major at the University of Minnesota, with 58.8 in the 100-meter butterfly; defending AAU and world champion Tom Stock, Indianapolis A.C., with 2:12.4 in the 200-meter backstroke; and another Hoosier world record-setter, defending titlist Ted Stickle, with 4:55.0 in the 400-meter individual medley.

Fairfield Shoe Company Plant

Is Destroyed By Fire Of Undetermined Origin On Sunday; Loss Officially Estimated At 1,500,000: Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Fairfield Shoe Company plant shortly after 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon despite the combined efforts of fire-fighters from eight fire companies. The loss is estimated at $1,500,000.

The conflagration is a serious blow to Fairfield as it means the loss of employment, at least temporarily, for 400 men and women.

The 400 employees made 7,200 pairs of shoes a day in the 100 by 250 foot plant.

The efforts of the Fairfield firemen seemed feeble against the roaring inferno. Flames broke out all over the building and were beyond control from the discovery of the blaze.

Firemen laid water lines from a pond near the factory but soon this supply of water gave out and several lines were laid in relay and water was pumped from Middle Creek (Flat Run) to the fire. Firemen kept several streams on the burning structure which was beyond saving shortly after the alarm was sounded. Then the firemen joined others in playing water on nearby structures. Paint on homes across the street from the conflagration was scorched.

The foreman was quite put out, when he discovered one of his men in the barber shop during working hours.

"What do you mean getting your hair cut on company time?" "Well, why not? It grew on company time, didn't it?" "It certainly didn't all grow on company time."

"Well, I'm not going to have all of it cut off."

Thrift Plan Is Moving Today: The Thrift Plan Finance Corporation is moving from Lincoln Square to new offices at 20 Baltimore St., in the rooms vacated by the Pennsylvania Employment Service when it moved to the new office and store structure at West St.

The Thrift Plan began as a local concern, with a local board of directors, but under supervision of the Pittsburgh office of the Thrift Plan in 1939.

In 1942 the local men sold their interest to the Pittsburgh Thrift Investment Corporation, which now wholly owns the local office and operates it as one of its chain of offices.

Retires From Phone Service: Mrs. Dora Neely, chief operator for the United Telephone Company at Fairfield, who will retire September 1, was honored by fellow telephone workers at a dinner party at Bankert's Cashtown restaurant Thursday evening.

John Caldwell, district manager, said that Mrs. Neely, who has a record of 23 years continuous service as a Fairfield telephone operator (17 years as chief operator), is retiring under the United's plan for employees' pensions. Mrs. Neely was commended by L. R. Thurston, United president, on her "outstanding record of loyal and effective service to the community and the company" during her telephone career.

In commenting on her telephone career, Mrs. Neely revealed that, when she became a telephone operator in 1930, there were only 44 telephones connected to the Fairfield switchboard. "Recently we have been gaining that many telephones a year," she observed. Currently the Fairfield exchange serves 370 subscribers.

Today's Talk

SIMPLICITY IN BRIEF

Voltaire wrote "Candide" in a few days and it can be read in half an hour—but it is one of the world's classics today. In less than 300 words Voltaire delivered his Gettysburg speech, which is the most perfect speech ever given by a public man.

In a few brief paragraphs the Sermon on the Mount sums up a way of life, and presents a philosophy of conduct, which, if carried out, can only bring peace and happiness to a human being. In all the writings of religious literature there is nothing to compare with it.

John J. Ingalls wrote a brief poem, called "Opportunity," by which alone his fame will endure. Kipling's "If" and Bryant's "Thanatopsis" will be read and remembered long after their longer writings are forgotten. Senator Vest of Missouri, left a legacy in his wonderful brief tribute to a dog, and most people will be reading and loving that short story called "The Master of the Inn," by the late Robert Herrick, and after his longer novels have ceased to be known.

The simple, lovable traits of a man are those that endure him to posterity, not his wealth, his fame, or what acclaim was his at the zenith of his career.

What an exquisite creation is the tiny humming bird, with its matchless colorings, poised in the sunlight, like a rare gem.

Man has never created designs to surpass those which are formed in the snowflakes that so silently fall to the earth. The smallest flower challenges the intelligence of man.

The simple nursery rhymes of childhood, the fairy stories, and the songs immortalized in youth and among primitive people are the most beloved.

Simple pleasures are the most wholesome. The simplest inventions are what have been most widely adopted. And in literature, books like the Bible and Shakespeare, with their short small words, are the books most universally read.

Also people who live simplest are the happiest and least confused.

Life is most genuine to them.

LIFE

Argue things as you will,
Or pro or con,
Press forward or stand still,
The world goes on.
Hunger and thirst and pain
Pass and return again.

Join with this throng or that,
Wear blue or gray,
Fool's cap or cardinal's hat,
Still day by day
At dawn the sun will rise
Lighting the eastern skies.

The world goes on despite
Our thoughts or dreams,
Still shine the stars in night,
Still flow the streams,
Nor will the blossoms care
Whether we mark them there.

Time on us each bestows
A stretch of years
But still unchanged it goes
By smiles or tears.
Not time's but ours to bear
The anguish of despair.

Each at his little post
The while he lives
Must strive to make the most
Of what life gives.
Men pass, but these remain,
Hunger and thirst and pain.

HUGE REWARD OFFERED FOR TRAIN BANDITS

By RAYMOND E. PALMER

LONDON (AP)—Flying squads from Scotland Yard raided homes in London's East End today, hunting bandits who got away with more than $7 million in the world's greatest train robbery. An international search order also went out for the suspected mastermind.

Most of the loot, valued at 2,525,100 pounds—$7,070,290—was in dog-eared but easily spendable paper currency that banks were shipping to London for repulsing.

Scotland Yard described the suspect as a master planner who would be able to maintain almost military discipline in his gang.

Detectives said the man has not been seen in any of his usual haunts. They believe he may have sought to establish an alibi by leaving Britain several days before the Glasgow-London mail train was robbed Thursday at a lonely spot 40 miles northwest of London.

ALERT INTERPOL

Interpol, the international police organization, has been asked to search for the suspect in the holiday resorts of southern France and Spain.

Detectives here hunted for signs of mail bags that had been burned or destroyed. Insurance companies and the Post Office tried to flush out a stool pigeon with rewards totaling 260,000 pounds—$720,000—some $20,000 more than the loot from Britain's previous record mail robbery in 1952.

Since a gang of 15 or more carried out the theft, the reward would be bigger than any individual share of the loot.

It would be tax free, with no questions asked.

Police said none of the serial numbers of the stolen currency notes was recorded.

PEREZ AT WAR WITH U.S. NAVY OVER RIGHTS

By DAVID ZINMAN

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—"Are we supposed to be gutless wonders? Are we to cringe like cowards?"

"No," says white-haired Leander Perez, fiery segregationist who battled the Roman Catholic Church over segregation and was excommunicated.

"We will refuse to allow our civil government to revert to a military command."

LONG CRONY

Perez, 72, crony of the late Huey Long and political czar of oil-rich Plaquemine Parish (county), is at war today with a tiny Navy post in his remote Bayou kingdom.

"I stand ready to go to general quarters (battle stations)," says Rear Adm. Charles H. Lyman III, district commandant.

The issue:

A Defense Department directive telling post commanders to fight discrimination against Negro servicemen and their families, both on and off bases.

To see that the order is not carried out at the 600-man naval air station at Belle Chasse in the parish where he has held sway for over 40 years, Perez Friday night announced:

1. He will "recommend" to the parish council on Aug. 28 that businesses be declared off limits.

MORE THAN 350 STRICKEN BY CHLORINE GAS

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dense clouds of chlorine gas escaping through a broken pipe from a railroad tank car billowed through a densely populated section of North-east Philadelphia Friday, sending more than 350 persons to hospitals. There were no fatalities.

Many persons, some vomiting and screaming because of the searing fumes, tried to flee on foot and were overcome. Many of those stricken were unprotected firemen and policemen who went into the area on mercy missions.

Police said the chlorine, stored in liquid form in the tank car, started escaping when a pipe broke.

CAR WAS RAMMED

The car, a Pennsylvania Railroad tanker, apparently was rammed by another car, investigators said.

The leaking chlorine turned to a thick, yellow gas. Heavier than air, it was nudged through the neighborhood by a 10-mile-an-hour wind.

It was the second chlorine gas leak in Eastern Pennsylvania in two weeks. A leaking chlorine valve in a Reading swimming pool sickened 59 bathers July 26.

When unmasked firemen and police rescuers tried to enter the stricken area in Philadelphia, many fell in their tracks. William J. Eckles, deputy fire commissioner, said the gas was very toxic.

The leak started about 1:35 p.m. at the Wonder Chemical Co. The owner, Arnold Lanza, 50, was in his office when he smelled what he immediately recognized as escaping chlorine gas.

"I grabbed a mask I keep just for such emergencies, called for my 15 men to leave the plant and ran outside," he recounted.

Lanza said after he detected the escaping gas he saw that a one-inch copper pipe connecting the car and a vat had snapped at both ends. The chlorine was spilling onto the tank car, over the track and into the plant, which makes laundry bleach and detergents.

SHOUTS WARNING

Shouting warnings as he ran around the plant, he scrambled up an embankment and turned off the valve.

Residents poured from buildings, including mothers carrying crying babies and searching for children at play.

The fumes grazed over a nearby swimming pool. "It burned us like fire," said one little girl. "When we jumped into the water, it hurt even worse."

Hospital emergency rooms soon were overflowing. About 70 persons were admitted.

A hospital spokesman said the gas victims suffered shortness of breath, chest pains and sore throats.

Gettysburg Triumphs 4-1 On Conewago Errors; Meet Here Monday For Title

The Gettysburg Little League All-Stars capitalized on seven Conewago errors to squeeze out a 4-1 win over the McSherrystown team Friday evening on the Little League diamond before the largest crowd of the third annual Adams County Little League playoffs.

Conewago conquered Gettysburg a week ago on a 6-5 decision to become the first team other than Gettysburg to move into the finals through the winner's bracket. Manager Les Bowman's squad did a reverse Friday by making fielding mistakes which led to four unearned runs and a Gettysburg victory.

The teams will clash for the third and last time Monday evening on the recreation field, the winner to be named the 1963 champions.

Gettysburg scored two runs in the top of the first inning when, with two outs, Dave White singled and Bud Johnson and Terry Bowling drew walks to load the bases. Jim Flynn then got on via a costly infield misout which allowed White and Johnson to score.

CONEWAGO SCORES

Conewago tallied its lone run in the bottom of the second. Hen Noel beat out an infield single followed by safeties by Bill Conrad and Bill Heiser loading the sacks. Another infield hit by Mike Slagle sent Noel in with the run.

Gettysburg added another run in the third when John Meinhardt got on by way of an error, went to third on two passed balls and scored on the fifth Conewago misout of the game. The winners annexed their final run in the fifth when Dave James walked, went to third on a single by Randy Phiel and followed by an error, and scored on the last bobbie of the game.

Mike Sunday turned in an excellent pitching performance for the losers as he allowed but three scattered hits, walked three and struck out six. Conewago also pounded the ball well, but did so with two outs in each inning. Mike Slagle and Hen Noel each collected a pair of hits to pace Conewago. Gettysburg's defense was bolstered by some outstanding fielding by shortstop Greg Redding.

JETS BEATEN BY OILERS IN EXHIBITION

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York American Football League club has a new name, a new owner, a new coach, and a considerably shuffled roster. Only the result remains the same.

The Jets, making their new name, new-look debut under Coach Weeb Ewbank, took a 17-0 lacing from the Houston Oilers Friday night at Shreveport, La., in one of two exhibition games on the pro football schedule. While the Jets were acting like the old Titans, the defending AFL champions, now the Kansas City Chiefs, whipped the Buffalo Bills 17-13 in the other game.

5 GAMES TODAY

Ten of the 14 National Football League teams swing into action today in one day game and four night games. The American League winds up its second weekend of exhibitions with Boston at San Diego today and Denver at Oakland Sunday.

Fans will be paying special attention to the Green Bay Packers in their Miami game with the Pittsburgh Steelers to see how the Packers react from their upset by the College All-Stars last week. With Ray Nitschke back in action and another week of practice, the Packers are expected to show vast improvement. It will be Buddy Parker's first look at his new Steelers under fire. Among Parker's problems are finding the right replacement for the late Daddy Lipscomb.

ROGER CRAIG ENDS HIS LONG LOSING SKEIN

By BOB GREEN

A combination of knitting, hitting and hexing did the job for Roger Craig.

Roger's misadventure tended to her nervous knitting, Jim Hickman tended to the hitting and Manager Casey Stengel tended to the hexing. The end result was enough to have Craig chortling:

"It's over. Oh man, it's over." That was the veteran right-hander's grateful comment Friday night after the New York Mets had pulled out a 7-3 victory over Chicago in the last of the ninth, snapping Craig's personal 18-game losing string that stretched back to April 29. The streak equaled the National League record and was within one of the major league mark of 19.

To escape that dubious record, Craig traded his regular uniform number, 38, for No. 13.

His biggest assist came from Hickman, who hit a grand slam homer on a 3-2 pitch with the score tied and two men out in the bottom of the ninth.

Casey got his hand in, too. When Cub relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel was winding up for the climactic 3-2 pitch, Ol' Case gestured wildly in the dugout, waving his crossed fingers at the pitcher in the classic baseball sign of "putting on the hex."

And while it was all going on, Mrs. Craig sat in the stands, nervously knitting away at a furious rate.

BRAVES BEAT CARDS

Elsewhere, Cincinnati chased in five unearned runs and beat the first-place Los Angeles Dodgers 8-4 while second-place San Francisco blanked Philadelphia 4-0, cutting the Dodger margin to 4½ games. Milwaukee beat St. Louis 6-3 and Pittsburgh and Houston split a doubleheader that lasted more than 7½ hours and ended at 2:30 a.m. Pittsburgh beat the Pirates won the second game, 7-6 in 11 innings after Houston had won 7-6 in 15.

Two errors by Dodger third baseman Jim Gilliam opened the way for six Cincinnati runs in the sixth inning, five of them unearned. Gene Green doubled in one run after Gilliam had booted a potential double play grounder and Leo Cardenas singled in another. Another Gilliam error let in two more and Vada Pinson singled in the last two. Joe Nuxhall was credited with the victory, but needed relief help from Al Worthington when the Dodgers rallied for three in the ninth.

Houston won the opener at Pittsburgh when Howie Goss slid under Bill Mazeroski's high throw with the tie-breaking run in the 15th. Hal Woodeshick, who allowed only three hits after coming on in the eighth, was the winner. Bob Clemente's bases loaded single broke up the second game and gave reliever Al McBean his 12th victory in 15 decisions. Only about 500 fans remained in the park when the doubleheader finally ended.

HOMER, NO. 3, HEX BY CASEY STOPS STREAK

NEW YORK (AP)—When Roger Craig rushed from the New York Met dugout toward the plate Friday night, he didn't do it to congratulate Jim Hickman on his game-winning, streak-ending, ninth-inning grand slam homer that beat the Cubs 7-3.

"The first thing I had in mind," Craig said, "was to make sure he touched home plate. I'd have tackled him to make him do it if I had to."

Hickman's homer, a soft fly that glanced off the scoreboard in left field, came on a 3-2 pitch from Chicago Cub relief man Lindy McDaniel with the bases loaded, two out and the score tied in the bottom of the ninth.

history. He was just one away from the major league record of 19, set by John Nabors of the Philadelphia A's in 1916, Craig is now 3-20 for the season.

"I didn't think Hickman's ball had a chance for a homer," Craig said, a big smile wreathing his usually dour countenance. "But when I saw it hit the scoreboard, I said, 'It's all over, Oh man, it's all over.'"

Craig, who had been sweating out the ninth in the Met dugout, rushed out to meet Hickman at the plate and told him, smiling, "It's about time you did something big."

Craig changed from his usual number, 38, to No. 13 for the game, and may have received an assist from Manager Casey Stengel. When the 3-2 pitch to Hickman was coming up, Ol' Case ges-

BOUTON WINS 15TH; DEFEATS ANGELS 1 TO 0

By MIKE RATHET

Oh, how Ralph Houk suffers. First Mickey Mantle gets mangled, then Whitey Ford gets mauled. And the New York Yankees play catch-me-if-you-can with the rest of the American League.

Since Ford was bombed out at Washington and became Houk's latest problem, Stan Williams has pitched a one-hitter, Al Downing a three-hitter, Ralph Terry a six-hitter and Jim Bouton a five-hitter. The opposition has scored two runs—one earned.

It's enough to turn Houk's gray hairs brown.

Bouton's 1-0 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Friday night was his 15th triumph and fourth shutout. It increased the Yankees' edge to 8½ games over the second-place Chicago White Sox.

The White Sox won the opener of a two-night doubleheader with Detroit 2-1 on Camilo Carreon's tie-breaking single, but the Tigers stumbled to a 3-1, 10-inning nightcap victory although two Detroit runners were thrown out at the plate and another was cut down at third during the winning rally.

Jim Perry's four-hit pitching and three home runs gave third-place Minnesota a 5-3 decision over Boston and dropped the Red Sox into sixth place with their seventh consecutive defeat. Russ Snyder drove in three runs in Baltimore's 7-1 victory over Washington and Kansas City defeated Cleveland 5-1 behind Noye Drabowsky's three-hitter.

FOURTH STRAIGHT
Bouton, now 15-5, got the only run he needed in the second inning when Joe Pepitone raced home on John Blanchard's sacrifice fly. That tagged Don Lee with the loss. The victory was the Yankees' fourth straight and dealt the Angels their fifth consecutive defeat.

Carreon singled home the decisive run for the White Sox in the fourth inning of the opener. Eddie Fisher got the victory, allowing only two hits after taking over when Joel Horlen suffered a back injury in a collision at first base with Detroit's Norm Cash in the fourth inning.

Rocky Colavito, who homered in both games, got the Tigers started with a walk in the 10th inning of the nightcap but wound up thrown out at the plate as he tried to score on Don Wert's grounder. Cash, who had singled behind Colavito, was tossed out at home on Bill Freehan's bounce before Bubba Phillips stroked a two-run single and was cut down trying to reach third.

PICK GRIFFITH TO BEAT MIMS

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—Welterweight champion Emile Griffith, only 24, is a 2-1 favorite over veteran middleweight Holly Mims, 34, of Washington, for their television, non-title 10-round at Convention Hall tonight.

ABC-TV will beam the fight nationally, starting at 9 p.m., EST.

In case you're wondering why they are fighting in this august horse racing center, the answer is that the fistfighting is part of Saratoga's thoroughbred racing centennial celebration. Both fighters have been warned not to get too racing conscious and that the gloves against putting horseshoes in rules still holds.

With or without horseshoes, the muscular king of the 147-pounders figures to have too much zip for the aging, onetime middleweight contender.

Griffith, now in his third reign as ruler of the welters—and he's only a baby—has a 36-4 record. Mims, who is rated just an "opponent" these days, is 57-23-6.

tured wildly toward the Chicago pitcher, waving crossed fingers at McDaniel in the classic baseball sign of "putting on the hex."

"It's hard to believe," Craig said after the dismal losing string had been broken. "I figured that was the way it had to be to win a ball game—a 3-2 count with the bases loaded, right down to the wire."

"All that publicity had put extra pressure on me. This game was like pitching in a World Series. It's hard to believe I got that many runs."

The Pirates moved into undisputed possession of second place Friday evening by downing the Rebels 6-1.

U.S. NETTERS ARE FAVORED IN CUP PLAY

CLEVELAND (AP)—The United States and Great Britain squared off today in the 35th battle for the prized silver Wightman Cup, emblem of supremacy in women's tennis.

The U.S. rates a slight favorite to retain the cup it has won 28 times, including last year's 4-3 victory at Wimbledon. Familiarity with the clay courts at the Cleveland Skating Club was cited as a favoring factor for the American women, who haven't lost the cup on their soil since 1925. Great Britain has won six times.

The first three matches—two singles and a doubles—will be played today. Three singles and a doubles match Sunday will complete the competition.

TOP PLAYERS MEET
All the power swings on the first day as the No. 1 and No. 2 players face each other. Top-ranked Darlene Hard of Los Angeles and Ann Haydon Jones meet in the first singles.

Then Billie Jean Moffatt of Long Beach, Calif., goes against Christine Truman. A half hour after this test of No. 2 players, Misses Hard and Moffatt will team up in a doubles match against Mrs. Jones and Miss Truman.

Major League Stars
PITCHING—Juan Marichal, Giants, recorded his 18th victory, moving into a tie for high in the majors, and fourth shutout by checking Philadelphia on seven hits in 4-0 triumph.

BATTING—Jim Hickman, Mets, hit grand slam homer on 3-2 pitch with two out in last of ninth for 7-3 victory over Chicago Cubs that ended Roger Craig's consecutive game losing streak at 18.

BUTTS DENIES HE BETRAYED GEORGIA TEAM

By DON MCKEE

ATLANTA (AP)—Wally Butts, former athletic director at Georgia, climaxed the first week of his $10-million libel trial with repeated denials of charges that he helped rig last year's Georgia-Alabama football game.

Butts, 38, who will return to the stand next week, testified Friday he never betrayed his school and denied any knowledge of alleged gambling activities of two friends.

On the stand for about three hours, Butts denied charges in a March issue of the Saturday Evening Post which said he gave information on Georgia's team to coach Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama.

His suit against Curtis Publishing Co., owner of the Post, resulted from publication of the article and accompanying editorial notes.

RESUMES MONDAY
Attorney William H. Schroder said Butts might resume testimony Monday.

But Schroder said he intended to call former Georgia coach and player Charley Trippi, a St. Louis Cardinals coach, and professional player Lee Roy Jordan, All-America center at Alabama last season.

Butts testified he did not know what Georgia's game plan was for the encounter with Alabama last year, Alabama won 35-0.

He said he had tipped off a Georgia defensive coach that Alabama probably would stress a certain formation. Errors by Georgia's sophomore players were costly in that game, he said.

$600,000 HAS BEEN PLEDGED BY BUSINESS

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton said Friday some $600,000 has been pledged for the purchase of capital stock in a proposed 53-county development credit corporation.

Scranton listed the pledges as follows:

Louis H. Roddis Jr., president of Pennsylvania Electric Co. and W. R. Snyder, president of Metropolitan Edison Co., $250,000; Jack K. Busby, president of Pennsylvania Power & Light Co., $250,000, and W. D. Gillen, president of Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania, $100,000.

The pledges stemmed from a dinner meeting of more than 60 bankers and utility executives July 16 to promote the establishment of more development credit corporations in Pennsylvania.

The governor named Busby to head a steering committee for the proposed 53-county corporation, Charles J. Heimberger, president of the First National Bank of Erie, was named vice chairman, and Secretary of Commerce John K. Tabor, a member.

Scranton said other members of the committee would be named shortly.

Southern Whites Wrestle With Thorny, Answerless Negro Integration Plight

EDITOR'S NOTE — What is it like to be a white Southerner today, a man of reason who is trapped by his own instincts and past but who knows integration must come? Tenth in a special Associated Press series on the integration crisis.

ATLANTA (AP)—For 70 years after Reconstruction, every Southerner was born into a segregated society.

Segregation was his way of life, deeply rooted in his consciousness. Moreover, it was legal. In 1896, the doctrine of "separate-but-equal" was tested, and the U.S. Supreme Court held it to be constitutional.

Some may have felt twinges of conscience, even so.

PUBLISHER'S VIEW

Ralph McGill, publisher of the Atlanta Constitution, has written: "The more sensitive Southerner often is self-embarrassed by a realization that he has accepted unquestionably some aspect of his community life which he rejects. But nonetheless, he is a part of what he has met, and been. And the past, in tales of his grandparents, his great-aunts and uncles, has been in his ears from birth."

In 1954, another Supreme Court reversed the earlier ruling. It held that "separate educational facilities are inherently unequal."

Southern lawyers and politicians had taken note of a series of court orders that put individual Negroes in some Southern schools, but the man on the street was not prepared for integration.

Overnight, in effect, he was told that he must do a mental about-face, change his attitudes and abandon beliefs he had always held.

Even where the effort was made—nobody can say how many Southerners made it—this was no easy task.

BARRIERS GO DOWN

In the South, racial barriers are going down. Schools, other public facilities and business establishments are being desegregated. What are the feelings of the Southerner as he sees the old patterns of life crumbling around him?

There is no one answer.

At one end of the spectrum are men like Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama and Ross Barnett of Mississippi, fiercely defending the old order. A legion of Southerners applauds them.

At the other are men like Hodding Carter, editor of the Greenville, Miss., Delta-Democrat, Ralph McGill and others who are less well known for their opposition to segregation. Carter and McGill receive bales of letters, some favorable, more abusive.

Between the poles of thought, you find:

—The Southerner who opposes integration, but believes in law and order. Reluctantly, he says the courts must be obeyed.

—The person who says, "We were all getting along fine until outsiders came in and stirred up the Negroes. If the outsiders would go away, the Negroes would be perfectly happy again."

WANTS TEST

—The man who says that, since the Supreme Court reversed itself once on segregation, it may do so again sometime. He wants the 1954 ruling tested, again and again.

For years, the South has been working aggressively to attract industry. The businessman knows—possibly from experience—that violence will hinder the drive. So, although segregationists, some advocate accommodation with Negro demands.

The situation for the Southern college student often is similar to that of the businessman. It may gall him to see Negroes on the campus. But graduation is more important and he doesn't want to jeopardize that.

Some thoughtful, sincere persons in the South are deeply troubled, wrestling with conscience.

A divinity student candidly acknowledges that he has been strongly prejudiced against Negroes. After he began studying for the clergy, he concluded that he could not reconcile his prejudice with his religion. "It was very difficult but I believe I can say now that I have freed myself from those prejudices," he says.

A woman commenting on racial disturbances in a nearby city, says: "When the troubles started, I tried to imagine myself in the position of a Negro. I tried to see things from this point of view. Frankly, it was a shock. But it still seems to me that if I were a Negro, it would be better to try to elevate my own race, not lose myself in another race."

RACE MIXING

This dovetails with the position of Southerners who deny any prejudice toward the Negro but say, "Race-mixing is not the answer to the problem. For both races, it is better to develop separately."

One man said he is convinced that "idleness" is causing the Negro unrest, North and South.

Negro unemployment, nationally, is more than double the figure for the whites. He said, "I've lived all my life with Negroes and I know that when they're idle they tend to get in trouble. Give them something to do, and you won't have all this trouble."

Atlanta has gone further than most Southern cities in desegregating. A waitress in an upper-bracket restaurant says she has seen only one "incident." Two white couples left in the middle of dinner, when Negroes were seated at an adjoining table. How does she feel about waiting on Negroes? "I don't mind," she says. "The kind who come in here are just like anyone else."

However, placard-carrying segregationists picket an Atlanta restaurant that has integrated. This is a painful example of the situation confronting Southern businessmen. They get it in the neck from both sides.

Finally, the Southerner is watching with the keenest interest as Negro demonstrations spread the North.

"Now the Yankees are getting a taste of the problem," he says. "They're going to see that finding a solution isn't as simple as they thought."

State Planning Sod Buster Title Test At Hooker Farm

By THOMAS E. PIPER
Adams County Farm Agent

Four events have been added to the Pennsylvania Plowing Contest, August 15 on the Joseph Hooker Farm, Bernville R. 2, Berks County.

The state championships in contour and level land will start at 12 noon. More than a dozen contestants, all of them county champions, are expected to compete.

Starting at 1 p.m., 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America youths will perform in two tractor safety operations. The best driver in each division will receive a trophy. All of the youths will get $10 each toward expenses.

Berks County sod busters will decide their championships — entries for the state finals — in a separate meet starting at 9 a.m. on the same farm. At 10 a.m. R. E. Patterson, Pennsylvania State University extension safety specialist, will use remote control to put a tractor through its paces over an obstacle course simulating rough terrain.

C. W. Passmore, Lancaster, general chairman, said 10 state and federal agencies, including the Cooperative Extension Service, will erect conservation exhibits in a huge tent, and that a food booth will serve lunches.

State Agriculture Secretary Leiland H. Bull will serve as honorary chairman for the event.

COW EVALUATION

The successful dairyman constantly checks his herd and evaluates individual cows. He sells the cows not making a profit. Production records provide the basis for determining which cows are making money and which should be culled.

Low production is the main reason for culling cows in most dairy herds. It is not possible to set a culling standard that will be applicable to all herds, but any cow that does not produce as much as the yearly herd average in 305 days (mature basis) should be a prospect for culling. Two-year-olds should produce 75 per cent, and three-year-olds should produce within 90 per cent of the herd average. Culling cows that are below the herd average will automatically raise the herd average and the culling standard will be raised.

Cows that fall right on or close to the herd average may be considered for culling because of chronic mastitis, slow breeder, slow or hard milker, temperamental cow, old or crippled, or poor type. These conditions can only be tolerated in those cases where the cows are exceptionally good producers.

LIVESTOCK PROTECTION

Many cows have died because of hardware they've eaten. Dairy-men are urged to avoid this costly misfortune by picking up nails, broken glass, or scraps of wire that lie in secluded fence strip areas.

Cows often die of lead poisoning, too. Make sure old cans of paint are not left where old Bossy can get them.

Dairymen can be one step ahead of the cow by stepping up their cleanup program. Remember, inspection plus correction equals protection!

ELIMINATE BATS

Whether you have bats in your attic or ants in your cellar, you can get rid of them.

Ordinarily all bats of a colony leave their roost within 15 minutes as dusk comes. Control means closing all openings so they can't re-enter. But this may be easier said than done. Bats squeeze through surprisingly small openings. It may be necessary to repair your attic leaving only one or two openings. Let the bats regain their usual routine, then close the last opening some evening when all have left.

Ants are tireless scavengers and unwelcome guests. In your home they eat sweets and greases. Since the queen ant and developing brood never leave the nest, it's obvious that killing the relatively few worker ants you see in your home won't destroy the colony. It's necessary to use poisons that can be carried into the nest. Chlordane dust or spray is the best material to use. Scatter the dust on the ground outside at its foundation and water it in.

Sanitation and good housekeeping help control household insects. Sometimes, even the best housekeepers are surprised to find sil-

Dehydrated Apple Pieces Are Attracting Interest As Cereal And Baking Mix

By MRS. HELEN D. TUNISON
Extension Home Economist

Crisp, dehydrated apple pieces are attracting interest of several food manufacturers as an ingredient in dry cereals and baking mixes.

These new apple pieces are made by a process that dries and explosively puffs them.

After the pieces are dried to about 25 per cent moisture content, they are taken from the dryer, heated in a revolving, closed chamber and suddenly released to the air. It's this puffing that makes the apples crisp, a quality not found in conventional dried apples. The puffed pieces are then returned to the dryer where remaining moisture comes out readily through tiny channels formed in the material during puffing.

MRS. TUNISON

These apple pieces can be eaten as they are, or can be reconstituted by simmering 2 to 5 minutes and then prepared for a compote, pie filling, or other dessert. Developed at the Eastern Utilization Research Laboratory of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, this new dehydration process is part of a broad effort of researchers to find new uses and markets for agricultural products.

To learn more about ridding your home of insects and other small animals, you can study by mail Penn State's correspondence course "Household Insects and Their Control." Write to Correspondence Courses, 292 Agricultural Education Building, University Park, Pa. Include $1 with your name and address. There are no other charges and the entire course is sent to you by return mail.

STRAWBERRY CULTURE

Strawberry growers who want plenty of berries next year should work on their strawberry garden now.

Fertilizer the bed at the rate of four lb. of 5-10-5 per 1,000 sq. ft. Watering is even more important during the hot weather than fertilization. In dry weather once a week is often enough.

Reduce the width of the row. Cultivate so that about 10 inches of row remains. This means that you have to be quite ruthless about discarding plants.

ucts. Already available to food manufacturers, the new crisp-dried apples may be in local stores for consumer use in the near future.

FREEZE FRESH FRUIT

Homegrown peaches come on the market early in August. So you can serve this fruit next winter tasting like fresh fruit from the trees, freeze enough peaches to meet your family's needs.

Good Pennsylvania varieties for freezing include Red Haven, Triogen, Golden Jubilee, Hale-haven, J. H. Hale and Shippers Late Rd. For best results, choose only peaches that are soft-ripe.

First, prepare a 40 per cent sugar sirup by combining three cups sugar with four cups water. This yields five - and - a - half cups of sirup or enough for about five quarts of prepared peaches. Before pouring sirup into containers, you can add a half teaspoon of ascorbic acid to each quart of sirup to prevent discoloration of fruit.

WORK QUICKLY

Working quickly, peel the peaches using a stainless steel knife. Slice or quarter them directly into sirup in freezing containers. Fill peaches to the full line, then press down and add enough sirup to cover them. Seal, label and freeze immediately.

Instead of packing in sirup, peaches may be packed in dry sugar or in water. These packs are described in Circular 464, "Preparing Food for Your Freezer." If you would like a copy of this publication, write or call the Agricultural Extension Office, 111 Baltimore St., Gettysburg.

45,000 ARE EXPECTED TO SEE BIG BOUT

By KEN WHITING
IBADAN, Nigeria (AP) — Now it's all up to the rain doctors.

Final preparations for the Dick Tiger-Gene Fullmer world mid-weight title fight have been completed. Except, of course, for the rain doctors who may or may not qualify as official.

The fight, the third between champion Tiger and former champion Fullmer, is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. tonight, or 1:30 p.m. EST, in Liberty Stadium, an open-air field usually used for soccer matches. About the only thing that could hold it up is rain.

And this is where the rain doctors come in.

DAILY SHOWERS

The rainy season is on the wane in this city of 750,000, but drenching showers still are a daily occurrence. Chief Joseph Modupe Johnson, Cabinet minister for labor and sports, has hired a couple of rain doctors to chase away any clouds. This, he said, is just to reassure any potential customers who may still believe in such mumbo-jumbo.

The fight, twice postponed al-poorly designed, poorly made products.

To know what might be available in the area you plan to visit, investigate ahead of time. Read about the area and talk with friends who have been there. Form your own opinions about the area, then investigate further when you get there.

You'll want to know if there are crafts native to the area and if there are professional craftsmen. If there are raw materials peculiar to the area, are professional craftsmen working with them? Are these artists aware of good design coupled with good craftsmanship?

In addition to all this, the family pocketbook becomes a limiting factor in your buying habits. You must decide whether it's advisable to buy a series of small items or pool funds to buy a single object that is significant of the area.

ready, is scheduled for 15 rounds. British referee Dick Hart will be the only official.

Tiger, who lifted the crown from Fullmer on points in San Francisco, Oct. 23, 1962, ranks as a top-heavy favorite. The two fought to a draw in Las Vegas Feb. 23 in their second meeting, Tiger retaining his title.

WELL MATCHED

Tiger is 33, Fullmer 32. They are well-matched physically, although Tiger has a two-inch reach advantage over Fullmer, who normally fights a crowding, punishing style aimed at getting inside his opponent's guard.

Tiger has a 47-12-3 record with 21 knockouts. Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, has a 55-5-3 mark with 24 knockouts.

A crowd of about 45,000 is expected—barring rain.

FED POISON TO HER HUSBAND

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP) — A Lawrence County judge has slapped an 18-to-36-month jail term on a young woman who admits she gave small doses of poison to her husband.

President Judge John S. Powers imposed the sentence Friday on Gayle B. Braddus, 24, of New Castle after she pleaded guilty to a charge of aggravated assault and battery.

Police said Mrs. Braddus told them she slipped small amounts of poison into the food and medicine of her husband, William, 28, during a three-month period.

Her husband had been too independent, Mrs. Braddus said. They now are divorced.

Braddus still is under treatment for effects of the poison.

CYCLIST KILLED

GIRARD, Pa. (AP)—Thomas L. Gurriel, 12, of Girard R.D. 1, was killed Friday when his bicycle collided with a dump truck in this Erie County town.

Hubby Makes Wife A "Human Torch"

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mrs. Toby Peterson, 22, was critically burned Friday night when she was turned into a human torch in front of her home.

The police said her husband, Amos, 26, admitted putting a lighted match to the hem of her dress during an argument.

Witnesses said she stood still as flames leaped up about her, and then fell screaming into the street.

The police said that when a rescue squad arrived, Peterson was cradling his wife in his arms. She was wrapped in a blanket.

FALLS TO HIS DEATH

Future Stars In "The Doctors" Cast

"Yeasty with excitement" is the way guest-star Abby Lewis (right) describes "The Doctors" which recently changed from its "different story every day" to five-part studies in depth. Smiling Richard Roat, at left, who's already achieved TV stardom in the NBC Monday-Friday daytimer (2:30 p.m.), is destined to be one of show business's really big names, Abby predicts.

By RUTH E. THOMPSON

"You'll find this series has the same kind of excitement that made early TV so yeasty," said one of my favorite actresses, Abby Lewis, who was guest-starring on "The Doctors" the day I decided to mosey over and ask why things were changing from a complete story every day to a five-part format.

I also wanted to find out why this NBC Monday through Friday (2:30-3) opus is credited with having "night-time production values on a daytime budget."

"Jerry Layton (the producer) sure knows talent and bless him, he does give pool actors a chance at stardom, a rare thing these days," Abby went on, adding, "Keep your eye on Richard Roat. Believe me he's a comer. Jerry always did know how to pick them, though. Lee Remick, Tony Perkins and Dina Merrill are some of the youngsters who remember his giving breaks to back when he was doing 'Modern Romances.'"

WHO WORKS HARDEST

Well, already I was getting more than I bargained for . . . the show is a star maker too, or rather it's producer is. Before my afternoon was over I also found out who works harder than sandhogs, farmers or business tycoons; it's daytime TV producers with actors running a close second.

"Why did we switch to a five-episode format?" echoed Jerry Layton when I finally caught up with him in the carpeted viewing room where he was glued to a TV screen watching the dress rehearsal via closed circuit. "Well, we realized this 'Eight Hours for Emily' was too good to condense. Then other stories of the same value came along and we changed our pace." He sounded like a happy man as he went on, "Now we can get below the surface of the characters and into their motivation in the five-day treatment. Important to us, too, is that now we can develop secondary and tertiary relationships among the regular characters in the background running story."

FINAL CHANGES

The dress rehearsal for the first fiver was winding up and Layton picked up his pencilled notes, threaded across the sets and into the already densely populated control room to confer with director Paul Lammers about desirable final changes. Assistants and engineers continued to push buttons, pull levers and go about their organized madness as three angles appeared on monitors of scene under way and five other monitors picked up every other group and setting. All stayed "in character" whether they were "on" or not.

This "first fiver" also introduced two new regular stars: Ann Williams (veteran of the departed "Young Doctor Malone" series) who's playing a lady doctor and darkly handsome James Pritchett as Hope Hospital's new chief of staff. "Isn't Pritchett a might young, though I grant he has the right air of authority?" I asked Jerry Layton when we got back to the viewing room. "I figure," he said smoothly, "that you can get just as much emotion from a good looking face as from a plain one. It's not unheard of to have a post like that fairly young. Furthermore, in this series, it's imperative that the principals be young enough to make romance believable."

As if on cue Pritchett, as Dr. Matthew Powers, was explaining that he was a widower. Ann Williams murmured lifelessly that

Eddie Foy Jr., Audrey Christie, A two-timing Air Force officer complicates life by dating Patty in London and Heather in New York. (R)

David Brinkley must be looking on the bright side as he comments that in "television and movies the hero has all the luck. He always finds a parking space right in front of the bank, the post office or the saloon." He forgot to notice that too often the hero is a cop chasing a villain who parked in front of those same places... first!

Parking places must have been on Victor "Sing Along With Mitch" Griffin's mind, too, because he says that things haven't gotten too much better for tough hooligans... in the old days they had notches in their gun handles, now they've got them in the fenders.

Ernest Borgnine of "McHale's Navy" has a couple of quips in circulation currently. "A gossip columnist," he says, is someone who puts who and who together and gets where? Then there's his comment, "In some marriages problems are relative." Little Irene Ryan has a big thought for the week... "Too many men," she says, "do not live by bread alone. They get by on crust."

IT'S DIFFERENT

Pearl Chertok took her harp to a wedding and somebody did ask her to play. Roy Castle did, and he was the bridegroom. Furthermore in order to comply with the British comic's request, Pearl had to lug her harp all the way to England. They have appeared together this season on "The Garry Moore Show." Pearl is also harpist for the "Ed Sullivan Show." Castle's bride is singer-actress, Diana Dickson.

Future Stars

yes indeed she was married . . . "but unhappily, notice," injected Layton. So that's it! Obviously this is a situation that will bear watching.

Well on to this "night-time quality" business . . . how does he get it? Simple it seems. In addition to ability and long experience he just practically works himself to death. The taping would end at 4 p.m. Then he'd have half an hour to rest, providing he did it in a taxi because "rehearsing the principals" for the next day's episode would start in a rehearsal hall 15 blocks away from the RCA Studios at 4:30. "It'll be over at 7:30 p.m.," Layton said. Then he projects himself into the future a bit and starts casting the story upcoming three weeks hence. Next morning at 8 he's back in the rehearsal hall.

CAREFUL PLANNING

"Careful planning is one way we can do what we do on our budget without cutting production values. We use only three hours of studio and camera time here at NBC. The rest is done at Judson Hall. Also very important is that we keep 15 full scripts ahead so no money is wasted carting away scenery that would have to be carted back in a few days . . . and our units are so designed that we have 36 combinations available at all times.

"Now watch," he alerted me. "If we wanted to cut corners we'd just have Roat appear at Abby's door, instead we bring him there. There are doctors and nurses in the corridor. See? And did you catch the orderly pushing a cart?" I did, also a bulletin board and a candy machine. "Now look around Abby's room," he said when Roat finally got there. "We don't have to have a heat lamp, pictures and a view from the window, but you'd miss them if they weren't there."

NAME VALUE

"We're not budgeted for names, though sometimes we are lucky enough to get name value along with talent. Jerome Cowan (whom Layton slightly resembles) has appeared for us. Tina Louise (heartbreaker of the week of August 2 with Roat the victim) is another. But luckily, all we require really is talent . . . and I'm sure we have a crop of future big names right here in this group."

"I've just found out a producer's work is never done," running to catch up with Abby as Layton presumably ran for his taxi. "How is it with actresses these days?"

"With me at least it's so busy I haven't had time for my exercise class," smiled Abby who has one of those perpetual angel faces that time doesn't touch. "You know I contend that life is a verb 'to do' for an actress can never stop learning." She should know. Fresh from New Mexico in the 1930's she landed immediately in the company of the legendary Walter Hampden who set her off cutting her teeth on Shakespeare. Then she "swang over" to Kaufman-Hart musicals, George Abbott comedy and TV. Not that she's said goodbye to theater! A couple of seasons back she and her distinguished husband, John Seymour, fifth generation member of a theatrical family, hit Broadway again with the charming but ill-fated "Howie." Yet with all this experience she's done what classically trained actors seldom do.

At Kim Hunter's suggestion a few years ago she started studying method acting with Lee Strasburg. Among her classmates have been Marilyn Monroe ("We all just loved her") and Ann Williams.

I am passing along three insights out my "Doctors' day. If

DIALING AROUND

Julio DiBenedetto's wife, Kis Carlton, has gone home to her mother . . . but all is well, Julio's gone with her. After visiting the family in Great Britain, the DiBenedettos will travel around Europe scouting talent for the Jimmy Dean Show debuting on ABC in September for which he has been named producer under the banner of Bob Banner Associates. Mrs. DiBenedetto, a noted beauty who was chosen Miss England of 1962, will present Julio with an heir in 1964.

One school that's having no restricting and integration problems is the fictional Jefferson High School scene of the new "Mr. Novak" series starring James Franciscus and Dean Jagger. When they chose "50 typical high school students" they balanced it in accordance with the ratio of mixed

Hugh Downs has a new kind of award to add to his collection. The NBC "Today" and "Concentration" host has been named "Salesman of the Year" by the National Association of Direct Selling Companies. The citation commends him for always selling his sponsors' products "honestly, persuasively and with good taste."

THAT COONSKIN CAP!

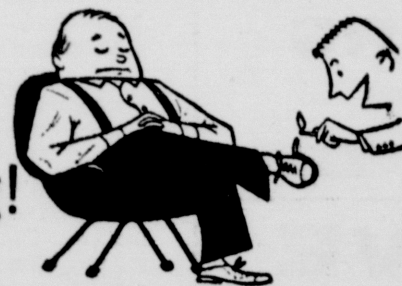

There's a first time for everything and while Davey Crockett has made the TV-scene before, it wasn't in full-color. This time around, though, Davy's to be a three-part feature of Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color (NBC) September 8, 15 and 22.

Those who were watching in 1954 will recall that Fess Parker got a lot of help from Buddy Ebsen, who works pretty steady these days in "Beverly Hillbillies."

And as for those coonskin caps? Well all in all over 4,000,000 were sold.
